

Lowe's Corn Stand Opens New Location On La Cienega

In order to accommodate its ever-growing list of customers, Lowe's Golden Bantam corn stand will open a branch stand at 1949 La Cienega boulevard, near Adohr creamery, it was announced today.

The famous corn-growing market, located at 10537 National boulevard, in Palms, has been in operation for the past 18 years, serving residents of the entire Los Angeles area.

Operators of the establishment said today they will sell the same high quality corn, raised in Palms fields, at the new location.

A complete vegetable section, such as is maintained at the National boulevard location, will also be featured at the new spot.
